

Secondary PSHE Adviser
0.4 FTE
Salary (pro-rata) £43,000-£49,500

About Camden Learning

Camden Learning is a local education partnership established in 2017 and jointly owned by Camden Council and Camden's schools. A company limited by guarantee, it was created for the benefit of all our children and schools, with a core focus on school improvement. We have made good progress in building Camden Learning and developing greater capacity locally for a school-led system. We have a strong relationship with schools and have worked closely with leaders to put the architecture in place to provide stronger and more creative connections between them.

Role Purpose

The Primary PSHE Adviser will provide high quality advice, guidance, support and training across Camden secondary schools, working with PSHE Coordinators, Senior Leaders and partners in Camden Council and external organisation, to continue to improve PSHE provision and contribute to improving pupil's health and wellbeing. The role will champion the sharing of good practice across schools and the development of high quality and innovative practice.

The Secondary PSHE Adviser will

- Lead on the development and delivery of work to support PSHE in secondary schools to meet the national curriculum requirements, through advice, support, guidance and training
- Provide support to PSHE Coordinators to develop their skills and confidence to lead PSHE effectively and facilitate the sharing of good practice between schools
- Identify, evaluate and share creative and accessible resources and develop guidance that will improve the provision of PSHE
- Work with school staff and Leadership Teams to identify areas for development and improve provision for PSHE, and plan support accordingly
- Work with partners across Camden Council, external organisations and agencies and health professionals as appropriate to support the development of PSHE in primary schools
- Provide operational and strategic advice to the Health and Wellbeing Team, colleagues in Camden Learning and the wider Council in order that Camden Learning is at the forefront of thinking and developments regarding PSHE
- Carry out any other duties commensurate with the grade of the post, as may be required
